

Common Core State Standards Crosswalk Documents

English Language Arts

The following English language arts crosswalk documents show the correlation between the Common Core State Standards (CCSS) and Connecticut (CT) standards, and the alignment of CCSS to Fourth Generation CMT and Third Generation CAPT. The documents are intended to assist districts in curriculum development and revision.

As of July 7, 2010, the CCSS were adopted as CT's English language arts standards, thus the CCSS appear in the first column, followed by the CT standards. The third column indicates how CT's current assessments relate to the CT Standards that CCSS that matched the 2007 CT standards. The final column captures notes provided by English language arts experts from across the state that assisted with the CCSS and CT standards comparison study. The notes provide further information regarding the matches between CCSS and CT standards, and CT's current assessments.
